ANCORATO

ZERO DOLLAR PRESERVATION

STRATEGY OBJECTIVES

- Preserve capital
- Create enough net return to out perform inflation and risk free rate.

STRATEGY OVERVIEW

The Zero Dollar Preservation strategy seeks to preserve capital, producing enough total return to outpace inflation of the US Dollar while maintaining a low entry price. These positions will typically consist of ultra short bonds and an aggregate bond position, and will utilize precious metals and treasuries when necessary.

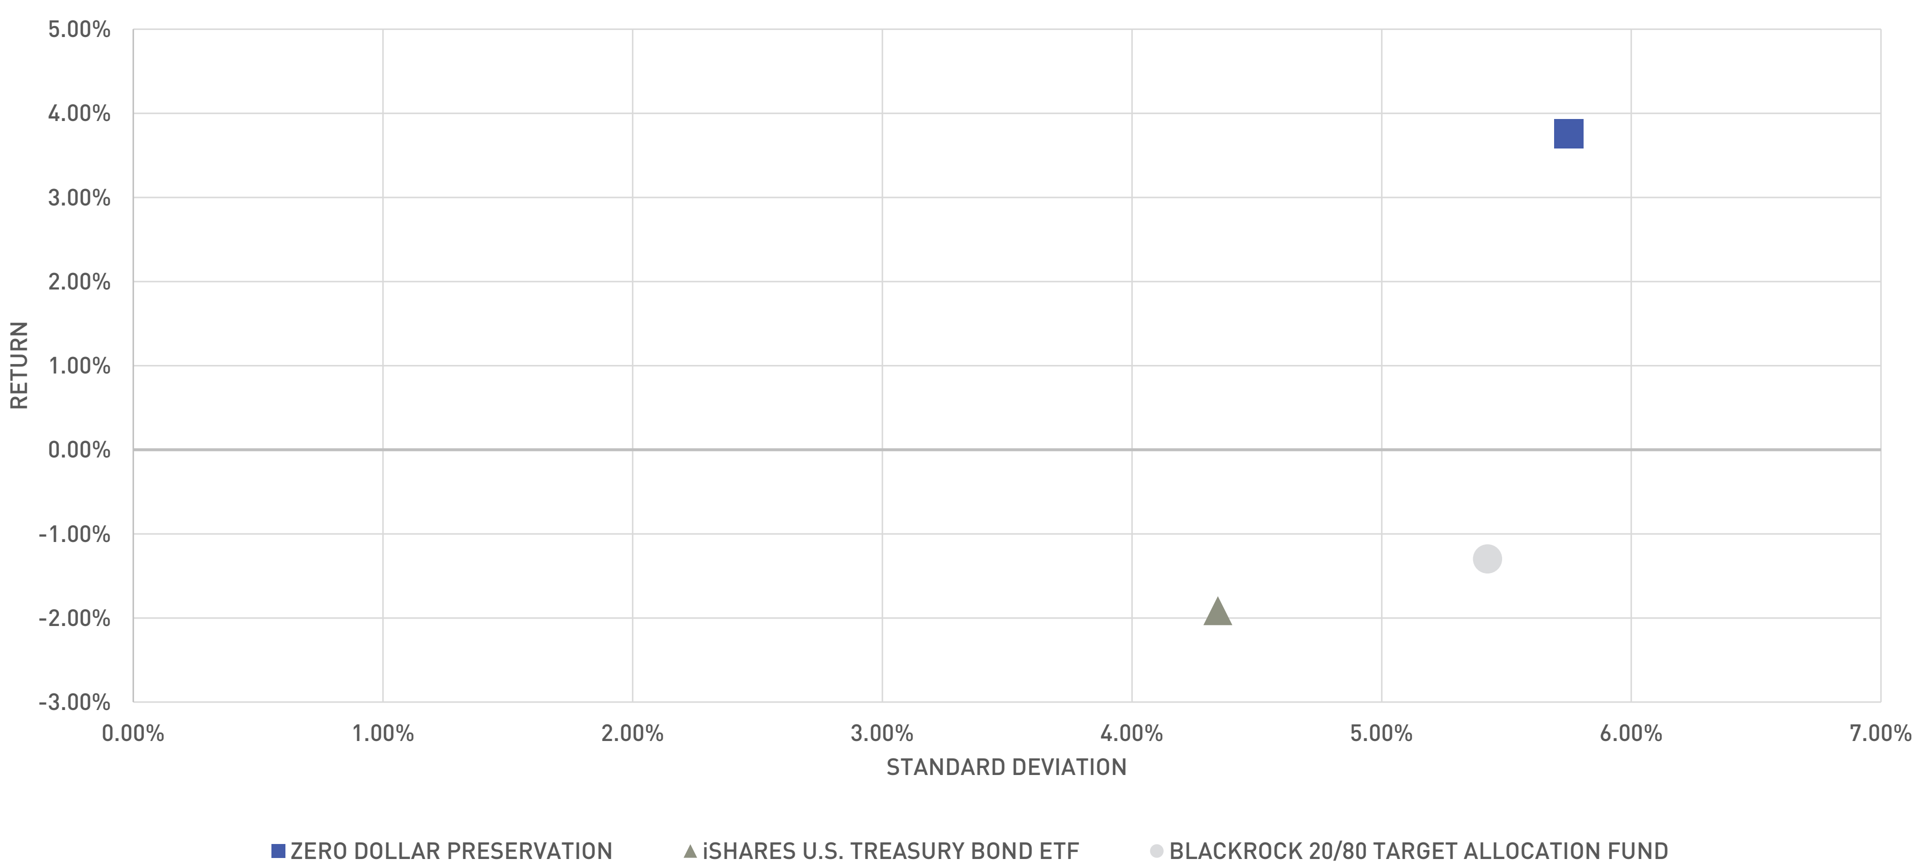
RISK/REWARD



RISK CONSIDERATIONS

Past performance is not a guarantee of future results. Investment return and market value of investments in the portfolio will fluctuate. Securities, when sold, may be worth more or less than their original cost. The debt securities in which the portfolio invests are subject to certain risks, including issuer risk, reinvestment risk, prepayment risk, credit risk, and interest rate risk. Issuer risk is the risk that the value of fixed income securities may decline for a number of reasons which directly relate to the issuer. Reinvestment risk is the risk that income from the portfolio will decline if the fund invests the proceeds from matured, traded or called bonds at market interest rates that are below the portfolio's current earnings rate. Prepayment risk is the risk that, upon a prepayment, the actual outstanding debt on which the fund derives interest income will be reduced. Credit risk is the risk that an issuer of a security will be unable or unwilling to make dividend, interest and/or principal payments when due and that the value of a security may decline as a result. Interest rate risk is the risk that fixed income securities will decline in value because of changes in market interest rates. Because the assets of the portfolio will be liquidated in connection with the termination, the portfolio may be required to sell securities when it otherwise would not, including at times when market conditions are not favorable, which may cause the portfolio to lose money.
